I am so sorry. Dear Sean, I remember when you were in first grade at East Side. I was not your teacher but I knew you well because of teaching with your dad. I have such fond memories of John's year at East Side and watching you kids grow up. We have (slightly)kept in touch via Christmas cards. I just received their card today (1/2/09) and read about Bunny's illness. I pulled up the website and realized what had happened. My heart goes out to you and to John and Libby. for Sean Hi Sean, I am one of Cindy's close friends from her Mother's group, and I had the enjoyment of meeting Michelle on several occasions (as a part of Cindy's 'girl gang'!). Cindy has shared with me, on a few occasions, the special relationship you and Michelle have had with Archer (and no doubt, with Julia too). This relationship (as conveyed to me by Cindy) tells me that both Michelle and yourself possess true quality of character, which doesn't disappear with death, because the imprint of it remains, in hearts and in minds. My sincere thoughts and prayers are with you. Simmonne. Submitted By: Simmonne

Sean I actually wanted to send Bunny a message just to let her know I am thinking of her, but unfortunately I was too late. I was fortunate enough to meet bunny a couple of times and she seemed like such a lovely, easy going person, and I remember that huge smile she had on her face showing off her rock after you two got engaged. I truly am thinking of you often and wishing you all the best for the next few days as i can't even begin to imagine what it would be like to say goodbye to the love of you life and best friend, even is she is just in the next room. Times like these

The Foo Fighters couldn't have described my day better...

it's times like these you learn to live again
it's times like these you give and give again
it's times like these you learn to love again
it's times like these time and time again

What can I say but three words:
Jade and Rhys.

They continue to amaze me, let me talk and make me laugh.

Just a simple trip to a shopping centre (didn't want them the only ones without sunnies!) was a terrific experience. If Collingwood can tackle has hard as Rhys hugs then they'll do alright. Jade continues to grow up before me her warmth and maturity gives me that quantum of solace.

We tackled a super variety bucket at KFC and ate way too much (you are right hun I am Carl Williams), but as Bun taught us we walked it off by shopping. JL went back for a Krispy Kreme, bless her! Bun is very much in our thoughts, Rhys mentioned that he and Bun still had the Northland to home record at 3 minutes, we tried to beat it but we think someone was fiddling with the lights to prevent us.

Hi Sean I found out from Cindy and have been really upset for days. Today was the first day I could face the website and wanted to say to you that I am so sorry to hear about Chelles. Although she wasn't directly my sister in law I always felt close to her and loved her very much. We are in UK at the moment but have put a request to return earlier as I really want to be with Chelles on 6th Jan. Please take care of yourself. Love Eric Lucy and Abby xx Submitted By: Lucy

Shell Bell Dear Sean, My thoughts are with you. I heard of the passing of my little cousin from my brother. I was shocked to hear she had suffered from the same terrible illness as my Aunty C. I haven't been in contact with Shell for many years, so only have memories of a little girl, who loved life and her family. I have been reading all about the Gorgeous young woman who she grew into and how loved she was. She is with her Mum and her Aunty Hihene (Irene) now and at rest. My thoughts go out to you Sean, your family and Bunny's family at this difficult time. I worked with Bunny at Medibank. When I joined the company in 2001, Bunny instantly welcomed me and made me feel part of the team - that was how Bunny was. Wicked humour, infectious smile and the biggest heart. Over the years I worked there we shared many laughs, girlie chats and a few nights out on the tiles. What I loved and admired about Bunny was her sense of self - she knew who she was, what she wanted and what she believed in - and from that she never wavered. Bunny's beautiful legacy to all who knew her will always burn bright. Bless Ya Bunny Youngie (Michelle Young) xx Submitted By: Michelle (Youngie)

Cel it was good to catch up and see some great photos. The kids hadn't seen shots of me dressed as Angel and Bun as a Can Can girl at my 30th, thanks.

We are headed surfing tomorrow, Bunny never surfed always threatened to. She will be tomorrow.

I know many of you are finding it tough, I can only talk from my experience here (doing my personal Doogie Howser - world's first blogger) getting it out somewhere, no matter what you say. It definitely helps me.

Quantum of Solace

No I am not doing movie reviews but I am headed out for with Skip & Vlade to see the latest Bond flick. The title could not be more apt in my life at this minute.

Lieutenant Dan did a great job today fixing up things around the house, the security/fly screen door out the back in installed I agree with Dan when he says "I'm pretty happy with that."

I think most parts of the service for Tuesday are set just need to type them up and hand it over to our creative team (Larry, Laz & Hilario). Thanks Martwell for the chat I won't tell anyone about biblegateway.com I promise.

Michelle Dear Sean, you don't know me but I worked with Michelle at Medibank. I will miss her very much, haven't been at MPL for a while but she is definately a person I have fond memories of from my 5 years there. It was always nice to see her early in the morning all happy and that was pretty much my coffee (pick me up for the day). She definately had that affect on a lot of people there and I can only imagine the loss you feel. With deepest sympathy, Dominik. Submitted By: Dominik Pietrzykowski

Our thoughts are with you and the children Sean. Roy and Judy Submitted By: Roy and Judy

A couple of small wins that meant a lot today were being able to get the 4th Twilight book for JL and the perfect parallel park at the dry cleaners. I pumped my fists like Hiro Nakamura because I know Bun was cheering in the passenger seat.

Can't wait to see Jade & Rhys tomorrow.

Heard this on the radio from the Kaiser Chiefs sums up my week. At the moment the good days are still well in front thanks to family and friends, I plan to keep it that way with your help.

Thanks to those who have called or texted me, I don't mind the phone calls I understand what Ryan is feeling (see posts: re useless) Ryan you are anything but. Your messages, blood and donations mean a whole lot! For those who haven't called I can feel your support as well, if you can't think what to say that's fine to. Just post a message of what you're thinking or feeling it seems to be working for me.

It was such a shock to find out. We used to talk and found out we lived in the same street when we were kids. Of the many years I have known Bunny, she has always been happy, kind and considerate. I, we, are the better to have known her. I will miss her. To Sean and the family, my thoughts are with you. Doug. Submitted By: Douglas Clay

I am sorry to hear that she has passed away but I know she is at peace. I only worked with Michelle for a few months but she made everyday that much more worthwhile. Thanks Michelle for reminding me that lines are there to be crossed and that joy and humour can be found in the smallest things. Bunny's passing We just received John & Libby's Christmas letter yesterday evening (12-26-08) and learned of Bunny's struggle. Pulling up the site this morning, we are stunned and deeply saddened to see she lost her battle with cancer. Our love, thoughts, and prayers travel half-way around the world from Elizabethton, TN USA to Sean and all of the family. We hope that knowing people around the world are thinking of you brings some small comfort and peace now and during the difficult days, weeks, and months ahead. Thanks Chinna for the following she recieved in a card of support (from Henry Scott Holland 1847 -1918) couldn't sum it up better myself.

Death is nothing at all
I have only slipped away into the next room
I am I and you are you
Whatever we were to each other
That we are still
Call me by my old familiar name
Speak to me in the easy way you always used
Put no difference into your tone
Wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow
Laugh as we always laughed
At the little jokes we always enjoyed together
Play, smile, think of me, pray for me
Let my name be ever the household word that it always was Let it be spoken without effort
Without the ghost of a shadow in it
Life means all that it ever meant
It is the same as it ever was
There is absolute unbroken continuity
What is death but a negligible accident?
Why should I be out of mind
Because I am out of sight?
I am waiting for you for an interval
Somewhere very near
Just around the corner
All is well.
Nothing is past; nothing is lost
One brief moment and all will be as it was before
How we shall laugh at the trouble of parting when we meet again!

Funeral Notice: 2:30pm 6th January 2008 at St Pius X Church
By Sean on 30/12/2008 9:33 AM
Dad and I went and spoke with Fr Edwards at St Pius X in Waterdale Rd. He was very helpful and we confirmed that the funeral will be at 2:30pm on Tuesday 6th January 2009.

Thanks for all the notices in the paper, I'm sure you won't mind if I reprint them on HowIsBunny as well.

Funeral notice will be in the paper in time.

Donations in lieu of flowers to McGrath Foundation or Breast Cancer Network Australia would be appreciated. Donation envelopes will be available.

Today I will open my iPhone and look over the music I was playing on Boxing Day. It will be tough but I will be surrounded by friends. As Matt, Dan, Cel & Mellissa can attest I was able to pull some tears with a few of those, some of which were suggested by your posts (No Marty I do not have the Collingwood Theme song on my iPhone).

Bless ya

Not changing the domain name but thanks to all who are asking "How Is Sean?" I wouldn't have it any other way. I know Bunny was always worried about everyone so I understand and appreciate it very much.

Mum & Dad are down for few days helping out around the house. We have been sorting through washing, cleaning, gardening just normal stuff. Yes there are a lot of memories surrounding me but they give me comfort. It was weird heading to a few shopping centres with Mum (nothing against you Mum) but Bunny and I did spend a lot time shopping together. Bun would be proud of me today I bought a new shirt with little indecision or procrastination, I can be quite frustrating to shop with but Bunny put up with it. I just said to myself today WWBD or What Would Bunny Do, which in this case would be, "Hurry up and make a decision you are starting to shit me. (All with a smile on her face)". Made me smile.

I must say I continue to draw great strength from my amazing children who light up my days with a simple text message or phone call. The best example I have is a simple text I got from them after discussing what they wanted in their personal notice in the paper.

"We love you bunny we will miss you lots and lots we will always be thinking about you love ya jade and rhys there it is dad can't wait till the beach cu l8r love ya jade"

With messages like that how would you feel?

Funeral planned for Tuesday

6th January 2008

By Sean on 28/12/2008 4:53 PM

Thanks again to all from the support from all over Australia and the world.

Personally I would like to thank my family which includes Callanans, Coxs and now Buntons for their offers of assistance, food and shoulders to cry on.

The funeral is tentatively planned for Monday 5th January 2009, please check back here or in the Herald Sun for confirmation. Bunny's wishes were for no flowers but donations to charity again I will provide the details soon.

If you have a fave Bunny photo please email them to tellme@howisbunny.com.

Notices will be in Mondays paper but I will post them here as well.

Callanan (nee Bunton)

- Michelle aka Bunny

14/06/74 - 26/12/08

Bunny passed away peacefully after a brave fight against breast cancer with Sean, Orval, David, Matt and Lieutenant Dan by her side. She made this "corner of the earth" an amazing place with her smile, vitality and presence. She was ready to be with her Mum, Curl, two amazing women now at peace together.

Beloved does not seem strong enough for the way we all felt about Bunny as a wife, sister, daughter, aunty and mate. She loved life and the people who played a part in it, she made a huge impression on all who knew her especially the kids. Jade & Rhys, Archie & Julia, Eden & Ava, Darcy & Beau, Becky & Adam, Aimee, Zoe & Charlie, Finn & Lily, little baby Sean and many more were all very lucky to have known Bunny. She loved all of you to bits, you all had a special place in her heart.

Bunny, I cannot express how much you enriched the lives of Jade, Rhys & I. Our home has been filled with love and laughter as it will continue to be as you have left us with so many great memories.

This is a rollercoaster ride that's for sure. Sometime in the very near future I will say those words to my love. If I only had Archie here he could tell me what track it is. She loved taking Archie to see James Blunt.

Her liver is failing, she is sleeping but comfortable and not in pain I can't tell as her forehead is relaxed. She did not like her forehead furrow joking she'd try Botox one day. No need Hun you are as beautiful as the day I married you. Two years of marriage may not seem long but gee we packed in 10 years of life in there.

Please look out for one another as Bunny would say, "Bless your cotton socks" I know most of you are wearing thongs today but you get the idea.

Shrek said, "I've always I was the strongest man in the world, but how can I be sure?"

Brad said, "I'm pretty sure I am the sexiest man in the world but I have never confirmed it."

Angelina said, "I've been told I am the most gorgeous women of them all but sometimes I wonder."

They decided to visit the magic mirror to ally their concerns once and for all. Shrek asked the mirror

Thanks Mandi for the MC Hammer shout out it describes Bun's feeling with her left knee perfectly. She took a tumble on the car park Thursday week ago and is bruised and very sore. They are trying to reduce the fluid in it to help her out.

Her bloods and liver continue to improve she is still having daily platelet transfusions (apparently it takes 4 donors to fill one bag so no excuses people give blood if you can). As she hasn't been eating too much her bloods are a little low in protein she is going to have something that sounded like BMXing not sure if she can handle at bike at the moment.

Other than that she is sleeping and drinking well which I guess a lot of you are doing with all the Xmas parties on. Ttyl Sean

PS apologies to Matt & Bridget I did realize late last night I left that one hanging out there.

Gotta get up

By Sean on 21/12/2008 11:13 AM

From UK group from the 90s Black Box

The good news is that Bun's blood test came back this morning with her white blood cells slightly up which is the best news we've had for a couple of days. Still some work to do but it is a small step in the right direction.

Her mouth and throat are still pretty sore so they have ordered a cocaine mouthwash which will deaden the mouth & throat. I don't know if this means Richmond fans will be allowed to visit as everyone is concerned about Ben's circle of influence check with Terry Wallace (again sorry about that but that one was like T-ball hard to pass up, gee I hope Didak stays in for NYE). Anyway I'll finish with the last line from Black Box.

And time won't take my love away. Sean

Were all in this together

By Sean on 21/12/2008 8:40 AM

You may have noticed the musical theme to my blog titles, even though I have the new iPhone I haven't used the iPod that much. These tunes seemed to popping into my head at the moment. FYI I am thinking of the Ben Lee song not the High School Musical version but whatever floats your boat. Speaking to Lish yesterday reminded me of one of Bunny's face questions which I'm sure the crew at Medibank know well, "What did you have for dinner?" with followup methods of cooking techniques and of course dessert. It's a Bunton thing but dessert is a must, they do all love their dessert.

Spent most of today simply watching Bun sleeping. She seems more comfortable today the morphine drip is having the desired effect, unfortunately her blood counts have not bounced back as we'd hoped.

We hope that there is a change for the positive overnight to see her immune system make a recovery so she has ammunition to fight this with.

Thanks for all the messages, texts & phone calls. I pass them on when Bun wakes up and asks for a Big M or icypole.

She is in great hands and they are looking after the both of us well. I know Margaret from the visitors waiting room will wonder on Monday what happened to her bowl of Clinkers? What can I say I keep getting pink ones I have to go back until I get a green one :) Cheers Sean

A hard day's night

By Sean on 20/12/2008 7:19 AM

Well if you know how I've been sleeping, if that dog was on a vinyl recliner. Much like sleeping on a plane without the customs checks and beggars at the airport when you wake up. Anyway enough about me nothing a coffee followed by a red bull can't fix.

Bunny's pain and nausea is fluctuating in equal amounts the staff here are doing a great job to level things out. Had another blood test this morning hoping they come back with better numbers than Matty Hayden this time. Until that happens she'll be in here for a bit longer. She may be home for Xmas if we see enough improvement so her immune system can handle the outside world.

Thanks for all the support and messages keep them coming in. Bunny knows there is a lot of support out there to all of you she says "Bless ya".

Sean, it was good to catch up with you yesterday and on reflection it made me think about showing courage and and mental toughness. I'm not real good with words but see if you understand what i mean. When i think of these things generally i think of football players for example, Jonathon Brown running back with the flight of the ball with the full forward and fullback coming the other way but he keeps his eyes on it and takes the mark, thats courage. Or the poor bugger who had to stand in the spot in front of plugger, thats courage. Rob Harvey and Shane Crawford who manage to go through the pain barrier time and time again to make the next contest. You are showing all these qualities plus much more, you are one tough bugger. You set a very high standard for us to follow, and keep up the good work. Pass on our love Bunny. Love Dan & Kristy Submitted By: Dan

Bunny spent the night at Epworth as they wanted to keep an eye on her and give her blood a boost. Platelets too low to have chemo and other blood counts done. She has has a platelet transfusion and 4 bags of blood. She wants to come home which is a good sign, last night she was too exhausted to care. For those wanting to help can you please find some time to give blood? Michelle has the most common blood type O+ (38% of world population according to Google) the blood bank always needs more especially over the holidays. Waiting on results and to see the doctors tyt. Nan & Pop Hey darling girl, just got back from Nan and Pop's, Pop's home from hospital today and enjoying Nan's cooking much more than hospital food. They urged me to send their love and support to you and Sean. When I showed them the website they thought it was magic! They asked me to post a message on their behalf, thinking that I must be on par with Einstein to be able to do such a thing on a computer - god love em. Nan's making her Christmas shortbreads and there'll be a batch on their way to you guys. Love you both xo Submitted By: Lish

DOJ and those mandatory 3pm coffee shop sessions got me started on the stuff.

Although Bun is drifting in and out of slumber I am keeping her informed of all your messages, so thanks again.

I know a lot of you are feeling helpless and want to do more. Please know your support is appreciated and you will be called upon. Cheers Sean

Thanks to all but worth repeating

A big thanks to everyone who is posting their support as the messages keep coming in here's a few I wanted to repeat here.

From Alan (Michelle's boss\mentor\friend\supporter)

"I thought it was time to tell on Michelle, just to remind people who may not know, exactly how strong she really is. Sean I was fortunate to interview Michelle some 7 years ago for a job. While we were very impressed with her and had already decided to give her the position it was only after I found out she had experienced her car being run into and written off straight after the interview and he plight leading into the interview (read Ansett) that I had a glimpse into how much she will fight for what she what. Jokes This one may not live up to Mairs but here we go - The Good Wish Fairy flies down to two statues in a park and says "If I could grant you both a wish what would it be?" They answer "We would like to be human for a day". "Granted" says the Fairy. They run off into the bushes and a rustling noise is heard. Five minutes later they re-appear with beaming smiles and the Fairy asks "Did you have fun?". "Yes" says one statue as he turns to the other statue and she says "I did too, but next time you hold down the pigeons and I'll crap on them" Submitted By: Kate Connelly Bunny is sleeping well now she is back in her bed, must admit it was easier getting a good night sleep with her by my side. She is eating her fruit salad around the clock and taking all our medications whenever I ask or nag, how the tables have turned :) I look for for her naggin' to return.

Thanks to Mum & Dad for coming down today to take the kids out for the day and buy us a Xmas tree. Mum has been cooking up a storm can't wait to get into those home made vegie and sausage rolls! Thanks Mum.

Wearing my 18-1 t-shirt today as a reminder that things that are not meant to happen sometimes do. I follow sports are there is always big upsets from bigger underdogs. 18-1 represent the record of the New England Patriots lasy year perfect record entering the the Super Bowl but their perfect season was ruined by the New York Giants showing that the unexpected can happen at anytime. This is your Super Bowl Babe, gotta believe

It was only a day in hospital but it felt much longer. Thanks to my driver David for helping me out today, no sleep and driving do not mix.

I can feel the relief in Michelle now back in our own bed (BIE Best Investment Ever!).

She isn't up for much talking just sleeping but I know as she sleeps in our bed I know she feels a little like this...

Ready for the fight of our lives

By Sean on 12/12/2008 7:41 AM

Sleep seems to be optional for the both of us at the moment. Very tired but getting our strength back to put up a big fight.

Got the bone marrow results back and unfortunately the cancer has moved in more than expected.

The plan and treatment course remains the same as we need to get this damn thing under control first before we can try different treatments. We are both very happy that the team of doctors and nurses are working hard behind the scenes to find whatever edge we can.

Michelle is a tough and stubborn woman and I love her for it we are going to put all our energy into this fight. There has to be someone defy and baffle medical opinion so medical breakthroughs can happen (here's hoping you see Bunny's story on House one day).

Thanks for the support it is appreciated and needed.

A hectic day at Epworth

By Sean on 11/12/2008 3:29 PM

It has been a busy day & Bunny has been exceptional.

She got thru a bone marrow biopsy with no problems we are waiting on the results.

She now has a pick line to give her all the chemo so less needles which Bun is happy about.

I am waiting at the Mountain View for an order of chips for Bunny so that's a good sign that her appetite is coming back a little.

All things being equal she will be home tomorrow.

Bun says thanks to everyone.

Cheers

Heading into hospital...

Dec 10

Written by: Sean

10/12/2008 6:49 PM

We have seen all the doctors we can in the past week. We (I say we but I really mean Bun) had more tests for blood and a CT scan of her brain. The good news is that her brain scan came back clear (from cancer not of a brain!), however there is some concern from her blood tests.

More tests are to be done at the Epworth specifically a bone marrow biopsy to confirm if the cancer is in the bone marrow which would help explain the aches and pains Bunny has had over the past 4-6 weeks.

So it looks like she will start some form of chemo tomorrow most likely with a hospital stay to get the cancer under control so her blood results improve. Bunny wishes she could post herself but she is so "knackered" (her words not mine) but she does want me to pass on Getting thru the weekend...

By Sean on 7/12/2008 6:08 PM

Just an update from the weekend. First of all thanks to Chris Bourke, Seamus Ryan and Norm for installing our new split system air conditioning it took most of Saturday thru the rain and heat but Bunny is now more comfortable even if I am freezing my nuts off! It was a long day for Bun but the Ivanhoe crew with help from Orv gave her some comfort while the boys were working away. I know Bunny intends to make a blog post herself but she isn't up to it at the minute. The pain killers and other mess have her a little disoriented for the time being she is happiest when sleeping. Again thanks for the messages and support. Cheers Sean
